FIFA gameplay mimics real world soccer, that is, you use the analog stick to control the movement of your team and player. As you will see, the gameplay is a lot of fun and action packed, with FIFA 22 promising to deliver the world's best soccer game. Controls

FIFA is a very simple game, by default, your game is controlled with the directional pad. You move your player with the left stick. You can move your player up and down, forward and backwards. You can use the buttons to pass, shoot, and select a player. Your set playing style will be different depending on which set of button you use. The button mapping are as follows: L1 = Pass L2 = Shoot R2 = Tack on R1 = Pass 2 = Tack on Start = Menus Sticks The D-pad controls the player. Simply move the analog stick left and right and the player moves to the location you choose. Button The buttons are used to control all the movement of your player. The buttons are as follows: X = The player runs towards your selected body position A = The player runs backwards S = The player runs forwards Y = Pick an option Setup your game

Setting up the game is easy, simply use the L1 and R1 buttons to highlight your player. Select the body position you want the player to be in. For example, your skills will be based on where you place your player on the pitch. As long as you move the analog stick up and down you will move your player. Move your player Pressing the RB button will cause your player to run backwards. Your player will run faster towards you and slower as he moves backwards. As your player reaches the edge of the pitch the player will slow down and stop. To pick up the ball, you must press the button again. Left and Right Stick If you hold the left trigger down and the analog stick forward you will sprint and run at full speed.
